AF3625 Engineering Economics – Written Assignment Rubric

Criteria	Excellent	Satisfactory	Barely satisfactory	Unsatisfactory
Accuracy, Understanding of the Content & Reflection on learning (50% of the total marks)	• The written assignment demonstrates knowledge of the course content by integrating all (major and minor) concepts into the assignment. • The assignment also demonstrates evidence of extensive reading effort of subject materials and an in-depth thinking about the topic. • The assignment demonstrates student's deep reflection on learning and that all given feedback has been applied when revising the assignment.	• The written assignment demonstrates knowledge of the course content by integrating partial (major) concepts into the assignment. • The assignment also demonstrates evidence of reading effort of subject materials and/or attempt to explore the topic. • The assignment demonstrates student's developing reflection on learning and most of the given feedback has been applied when revising the assignment.	• The written assignment demonstrates superficial knowledge of the course content by integrating a few concepts into the assignment. • The assignment also demonstrates limited evidence of reading effort of subject materials and/or attempt to explore the topic. • The assignment demonstrates student's superficial reflection on learning, and a few given feedback has been applied when revising the assignment.	• The written assignment demonstrates inaccurate knowledge of the course content. • There is a lack of evidence of the reading effort of subject materials or depth of thinking about the topic. • The assignment shows no evidence of student's reflection on learning. Given feedback has not been applied when revising the assignment.
Elaboration & Details (17% of the total marks)	• Details are fully elaborated and analyzed, including all necessary and relevant information necessary for full understanding.	• Details are mostly elaborated and analyzed, including most necessary and relevant information	• Details are partially elaborated and analyzed, including a few necessary information but	• Majority of the details are not elaborated and analyzed, missing necessary information, necessary for understanding.	without clarification or description.	clarification or description.

AF3625 Engineering Economics – Written Assignment Rubric

Structure (17% of the total marks)	• The written assignment shows high degree of organization with skillful use of transitions to connect ideas and sections of questions to create coherence.	• The written assignment is logically organized with transitions used between ideas and sections of questions to create coherence.	• The written assignment is mostly organized but lacks transitions between ideas and sections of questions to create coherence.	• The written assignment is incoherent and lack of logical organization and transitions between ideas and sections of questions.
Correct English & Econ. expressions (16% of the total marks)	• The choice of words (both English and Econ. expressions) are accurate. • Uses varied and descriptive language, possibly including native-like phrasing and/or expressions. • All sentences are well structured. • The written assignment is free of distracting spelling, punctuation, and grammatical errors.	• Most of the choices of words (both English and Econ. expressions) are accurate. • Majority of the sentences are well structured. • Most spelling, punctuation, and grammar are correct, allowing the readers to progress through. • A few errors remain.	• Most of the choices of words (both English and Econ. expressions) are accurate. • The sentences are fragmented. • Noticeable errors in spelling/ punctuation/ grammar, readers have to guess to progress through.	• Most of the choices of words (both English and Econ. expressions) are inaccurate. • Majority of the sentences are ill-structured. • Spelling, punctuation, and grammatical errors create distraction, making reading difficult. • Errors are frequent.